Traditional Watermill of Diminio

At the Selliandros site near Diminio, beside the river of the same name, stands the village's traditional watermill. By a contract of 1917 it passed to the Krisilia family, who kept it for decades. Today, owing to restoration work, it is not operating and not open to visitors, yet it remains a characteristic example of the region's water-powered heritage, set in green surroundings close to the sea.
