SIGHTS · KIATO & SIKYONIA

Watermill of Kyllini

In Kyllini, once known as Bouzi, a traditional watermill with its fulling-basin (nerotrivi) survives in full working order. These simple water-powered structures belong to the pre-industrial age, with roots in Ottoman times. The fulling-basin was used to clean heavy woollen textiles, flokati rugs, capes and carpets, and today the site brings back to life a forgotten side of everyday village work.

Useful information

Entrance	Free

Take it with you

Navigate with Google Maps

Open this page on your phone visitkiato.com/en/axiotheato/watermill-of-kyllini

Enjoy Kiato and Sikyonia!