Papanikas Statue, Kastania Pass

At the high mountain pass of Kastania, where the road threads between Mount Zireia and Mount Oligyrtos toward the Feneos plateau, stands a monument to Georgios Papanikas, a local chieftain of Kastania and comrade-in-arms of Kolokotronis during the 1821 War of Independence. The statue honours the village's role in the Corinthian struggles and marks a scenic stopping point with sweeping views over the surrounding peaks.
