Agios Georgios Chapel, Kryoneri

The chapel of Agios Georgios hides in the mountains around Kryoneri, a village built amphitheatrically at about 740 metres with views towards both the Corinthian and Saronic gulfs. Small and picturesque, it offers a moment of quiet reflection within a serene upland landscape far from any bustle. The journey up to it, through slopes and streams, is part of the experience for anyone drawn to the mountainous countryside of Sikyona and its scattered, timeless little churches.
