Dormition Church, Souli

On the flagstoned square of Souli, a village on the north-eastern foothills of Mount Kyllini with views toward the Corinthian Gulf, stands the parish church of the Dormition of the Virgin. Built entirely of stone in a cross-shaped basilica style, it was raised gradually during the second half of the 19th century and remains the religious and social heart of the village. Its stone façade and quiet square capture the authentic character of upland Corinthia.
