Stymphalia Environment Museum

The Stymphalia Environment Museum, part of the network of thematic museums run by the Piraeus Bank Group Cultural Foundation (PIOP), opened in 2010 on a wooded slope overlooking the lake. Its exhibitions explore the interdependence of people and nature in the Stymphalia basin, alongside the traditional technology once used to harness and manage the region's water. Blending ecological awareness with the preservation of local know-how, it also rewards visitors with beautiful views over the wetland.
