Ancient Sikyon

On the Vasiliko plateau a few kilometres south of Kiato lies the archaeological site of Ancient Sikyon, a celebrated city that flourished in Hellenistic times and was renowned as a cradle of painting and sculpture. Visitors can wander among the large theatre, the remains of the agora, the bouleuterion, the stoa and the gymnasium, while the site's small museum is housed in the restored Roman baths. It is a peaceful, history-rich spot with sweeping views toward the Corinthian Gulf.
